

Health & Illness Terms 1: General Terms

A Quick-Reference Guide

Questions:

What's wrong? How do you feel? Do you feel sick? Are you hurt? What are your symptoms?

Answers: the same meaning, three different grammar forms

Symptom	Ailment - Noun Type	Ailment - Verb Type	Ailment - Adjective Type
(Forms)	I have a _____ (ailment - noun) on my _____ (body part).	My ____ (bodypart) _____ (ailment - verb). [I _____. (with no "s")]	I ____ (ailment - verb) my _____ (body part).
(Terms)	a hurt, an ache a sore a bump a bruise a cut an itch a fever, a temperature an infection a swelling an injury a burn	hurts, aches, smarts bruises bleeds itches swells burns	(is hurt) (is) sore (is) bruised (is) cut, (is) bleeding (is) itchy (is itchy) (is/am) hot (feel/feels hot) (is) infected (is) swollen (is) injured, (is) hurt (is) burned
Nose	I have allergies.	My nose runs (all day).	My nose is running.
Stomach	I have a stomachache/bellyache.	My stomach aches.	My stomach is hurting (me).
Head	I have a headache.	My head hurts.	My head is hurt.
Arm, Leg, Hand, Foot	I have a sore on my ____ [arm]. I have a broken ____ [arm].	My ____ [arm] hurts. I hurt my ____ [arm].	My arm is hurting.
Voice	I have laryngitis .	I lost my voice.	My voice is horse.

Other Expressions:

Directions/Advice Take this medicine You need medicine . You should rest . You need rest . go to the doctor go to the hospital/a clinic . Talk to the nurse . Well-wishing (Please) Get well soon. I hope you feel better (soon). I feel ill. I feel sick. (UK English: "sick" = vomit) Birthmark, beauty-mark ほくろ vs. Bruise 青あざ (あおあざ)	Recovery Terms I am well (now). I'm (all) better (now). I got better. I'm not sick anymore. I've recovered from my cold. I've recovered completely. I've completely recovered. I don't have a cold anymore. I got over my cold. I'm now over my cold. I'm over the cold. ...but now I've got pollen allergies. It is better now. It has healed. _____ (my arm, my leg) (has) healed. _____ (my arm, my leg) is (all) better now. It doesn't hurt (anymore). It's not contagious (anymore).
--	--