

Countability - Questions

A Quick-Reference Guide

Does Vs. Do Vs. Either

Context-Dependent Forms

Does Vs. Do Vs. Either -- Making Statements & Questions (follows countability)

Example Situation: A Large container in a shop filled with:

Does (uncountable-form)

- How much does the fishing bait cost? (~~do the bait~~)
- How much does the rice cost? (~~do the rice~~)
- How much does the miso cost? (~~do the miso~~)
- How much does the ice cream cost? (~~do the ice cream~~)
- How much does the tea cost? (~~do the tea~~)
- How much does the flour cost? (~~do the flour~~)

Do (countable-form)

- How much do the nuts cost? (~~does the nuts~~)
- How much do the beans cost? (~~does the bean~~)
- How much do the batteries cost? (~~does the batteries~~)
- How much do the flowers cost? (~~does the flowers~~)

Both - (Do = plural, Does = singular)

(For words that have both countable and uncountable uses, the criteria for using "do" and "does" become singular vs. plural)

- How much do the candies cost?
- How much does the candy cost?
- How much do the chocolates cost?
- How much does the chocolate cost?
- How much do the fruits cost?
- How much does the fruit cost?

Universal Forms

(Countable or Uncountable, Singular or Plural)

Works for anything:

- How much for the _____?
- What is the price of the _____?

Phrase:

"for the"
"the price of the"